EXECUTIVE FUNCTION IDEAS FOR SUMMER PLAY

Below is a list of great summer activities that can be done at home. In each activity, caregivers should look for three indicators of playful learning: choice, wonder, and delight.

Choice looks like kids setting goals, developing and sharing ideas, making rules, negotiating challenges, and choosing how long to play.

Wonder looks like kids exploring, creating, pretending, imagining, and learning from trial and error.

Delight looks like happiness; kids smiling, laughing, being silly, or generally feeling cozy and at ease.

- * Make a picnic lunch, using only foods starting with the letter "P."
- * Make mud pies.
- * Make pine cone bird feeder
- * Make a crazy backyard obstacle course
- * Blow bubble through a hoop
- * Use pens or markers to decorate an old t-shirt.
- * Plant a surprise garden with mystery seeds.
- * Dig for buried treasure.
- * Add bubble bath to a wadding pool.
- * Use old boxes to build a robot.
- * Have a sponge fight.
